

2016-02: Atmospheric Propagation of Lasers

This call is for techniques and technologies to compensate for atmospheric perturbation in our local environment to improve laser beam quality. Laser suffers from atmospheric turbulence that affects the focus of laser. Key technologies may include adaptive optics, laser beam characteristic optimisation, etc.